Governor Says Good Purpose of the Tabernacle Fails to Warrant Waiving Safeguard from Fire

The Billy Sunday tabernacle bill has been vetoed by Governor McCall.

The Governor bases his action on the ground that "a meritorious purpose" fails to warrant dispensing with safeguards for protection of people in large assembly halls.

The House received, soon after it convened today, the veto message which the Governor had signed, sealed and forwarded to the House clerk late yesterday afternoon. His Excellency kept strict silence about it until the House received it officially.

Friends of the bill are expected to make a fight to pass it over the veto. This will take a two-thirds House vote and a Senate majority.

W. E. Blodgett, chairman of the Tabernacle committee, said:

"Yes indeed, I have heard the news. That kind of news is very speedy in traveling. Mr. Sunday, as far as I know, is at his place at Winona Lake, Indiana. We have wired him. He will be greatly disappointed, I know. Just what effect this move will have on him I cannot state. He will do the best he can, anyway."

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The tabernacle bill would allow the Boston Sunday Evangelistic Committee to erect an assembly hall exempted from some important provisions of the building laws, especially that relating to fireproof construction.

After citing possible dangers from such exemption, the Governor noted in his message that he had just signed a

FOUGHT FIRE IN N HOLD FIVE WEEKS

The two-masted schooner J. R. Bodwell of Rockland, Me., which left Rockport last month for Boston with a cargo of lime, arrived here today after having a fire in her hold for five weeks. The schooner sprang a leak shortly after leaving Rockport and the water got to the lime and started a fire. Gloucester was reached on March 17 and the schooner remained there till today.

MRS. PANKHURST HERE; RAPS SIR ROGER

Mrs. Pankhurst, the famous English suffrage leader, who is on a visit to Boston, said in an interview today in a parlor of Hotel Westminster that militant methods for votes for women had been suspended in England until the European war ends.

"We are simply directing our energies and efforts in common with all the rest of the people to the common cause of the empire. What may happen after the war is, of course, another question.

"Our people are determined to see this war through to a victorious finish no matter what the cost. If little Belgium can face martyrdom for her nationality we can; if Serbia can face martyrdom for her nationality we can. But there will be no martyrdom, the allies will win the war. No question about that."

"How do you feel about Lloyd-George's stand as to conscription?"

"Lloyd-George is perfectly right. If conscription should become necessary, then the country must have it. The people will insist upon it."

"What is your opinion of Sir Roger Casement and his Irish revolution?"

"Sir Roger Casement is a madman. That is all I have to say of him, he is a madman. But as to the Sinn Feiners, all I can say of them is that the worst that could happen to them is to hand them over to the tender mercies of the Germans. Believe me, they would get a short shrift."

"What is the attitude of the people of Ireland as you know it?"

"The Irish people by a vast majority are perfectly loyal in this war. The real leaders of a people are the men to speak for that people. Both Mr. Redmond and Sir Edward Carson are being supported in their policy. They agree that Ireland is loyal and behaving nobly, despite this small faction of Sinn Fein. And both Redmond and Carson know."

Mrs. Pankhurst spoke at Ford Hall this afternoon on "The Work of Women."

EXECUTION OF GIRL IS REPORTED

Boston Friends of Alice Masaryk Are Stirred by the Dispatches Telling of Her Death in Austria

Boston friends of Miss Alice Masaryk, widely known in this country for her social settlement work, declared today that if the reported execution by the Austrian government in Vienna was true a second Edith Cavell tragedy had taken place.

Reports received from New York today stated that Miss Masaryk, who was arrested because of alleged seditious statements in a paper which she and her father edited in Trazne, had been put to death by a military tribunal.

The Women's Peace Party has been making strenuous efforts in behalf of Miss Masaryk, and at the present time Mrs. Glendower Evans of this city is in New York in that connection.

The mother of the young Bohemian woman was Miss Charlotte Garrigue of Brooklyn, and her father Professor Thomas G. Masaryk, who has lectured under the Crane Foundation at Chicago. Miss Masaryk, who is thirty-seven years of age, was a resident for a year at the University Settlement in Chicago, where she worked in conjunction with Jane Addams, Mary McDowell and others, and endeared herself to everyone because of her winning personality.

Among the intimate friends in Boston of Miss Masaryk and her father are Professor Ephriam Emerton and Professor Leo Wiener of Harvard University. The young woman was herself a scholar of Prague, held the degree of doctor of philosophy from Berlin University and taught literature and history for many years at the girls' Lyceum near Prague.

Her father, who was a friend of Tolstoy, had been called "the most distinguished living Bohemian."

Last October the periodical "Čas," the organ of the group which Professor Masaryk headed, was suppressed and the editorial staff, including his daughter, thrown into prison. It was recently learned that Miss Masaryk had been transferred from Prague to Vienna, where she was placed in the Pecon hospital.

Mary McDowell, head worker of the Chicago University Settlement, submitted a statement to the Woman's Peace Party and asked that all American women be asked to write to their representatives in congress urging the government to use leniency toward Miss Masaryk.

The Massachusetts branch of the Woman's Peace Party appointed a committee to work for Miss Masaryk. This committee consisted of Mrs. Andrew Winslow of Chestnut Hill, chairman; Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, Mrs. Glendower Evans and Miss Ethel Dreyfus. Mrs. Evans forwarded a letter to Professor Münsterberg of Harvard asking him to use his influence with the German government in behalf of the young Bohemian.

GERARD ON VISIT TO KAISER

U. S. Ambassador Goes to Confer on the U-Boat Situation; Germany Is Expected to Yield

Berlin, April 27, via wireless, April 27.—James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to Germany, will leave tonight for German army headquarters, it was announced today. The ambassador will be received by Emperor William, and it is understood that the submarine question will be fully discussed by the Kaiser and the American envoy.

Amsterdam, April 27.—A semi-official statement published in the Cologne Gazette proposes the German people for a partial surrender to the America demands on submarine warfare. According to advices received today, Germany will yield in order to balk the efforts of the entente powers to gain the complete support of the United States.

By International News Service.

Berlin, April 27.—With the return of Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg from army headquarters, where he conferred with Emperor William, it is expected that the formal reply to the American note on submarine warfare will be immediately prepared and handed to Ambassador Gerard for transmission to Washington. Unless unforeseen delays occur, it was stated at the Foreign Office today, the reply will be in Washington by Monday.

All external indications are that the crisis has passed and that there will be no break in the relations between Germany and the United States.

Only Fifth of Eligible Irish Have Enlisted

London, April 27.

FIGURES showing the views of the Irish toward the war were compiled today.

When the war broke out there were 450,000 unmarried males of military age in Ireland.

Up to February 1 last, there had been only 89,723 enlistments. Of these, 86,277 enlisted were in the army and 3,446 in the navy.

CASEMENT MAY BE EXECUTED, VERY SOON

By International News Service.

London, April 27.—Sir Roger Casement will be executed within a few days, either by hanging or beheading, it is stated in high naval circles.

The first story of the capture of the Irish leader is obtained from the same source. It appears that Sir Roger and two companions were landed on the southwest coast of Ireland from a submarine. They came ashore in a small boat.

His companions were placed in an automobile which was to convey them by a prearranged plan, but the authorities having got wind of the plot, were ready, and all three were arrested.

I don't expect to live long now, said Sir Roger, as the British police

It is believed the German naval attack on Lowestoft was planned to divert attention from the rebellion.

Sir Roger Casement had expected to raise 100,000 volunteers in Ireland for the revolution.

The German auxiliary cruiser which was sunk by the British at the same time that Sir Roger was captured was loaded by the Germans with munitions. It is said naval officials feel all those were to be landed on the sea with the ship

GREAT OFFENSIVE BY ALLIES SOON

By FRANK TEWSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

April 27. Many signs point to an early resumption of the offensive by the British armies on the western front, according to English military experts.

It is in this connection that Sir Douglas Haig could have launched his bolt today but for the fact that the British commanders are closely studying the German drive against Verdun, so that the lessons learned in the present battle may be applied to profit by the mistakes of the Teuton armies.

It is from Paris that the closing of the Verdun-Soissons battle indicates that the Germans are starting a great offensive movement in Alsace that may overthrow the meaning of the entente line of French fortresses that since Sept. 1914 has existed.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, and John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist, both expressed the hope in the House of Commons that no political capital would be made out of the rebellion.

The Prime Minister's statement as to conditions followed the admission by Lord Lansdowne, made in reply to Viscount Middleton's attack on the government, that although the situation in the provinces was not wholly satisfactory the information

It is believed that all struck mines.

SITUATION IS SERIOUS, ASQUITH TELLS HOUSE

London, April 27.—A contingent of British troops has been sent from Wales to reinforced the English soldiers in Ireland.

By SYDNEY B. CAVE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 27.—All of Ireland is now under martial law. Premier Asquith announced today in the House of Commons that martial law had been extended from Dublin and Dublin County to include the entire island.

A contingent of British troops has been sent from Wales to reinforce the British soldiers in Ireland.

The announcement of the Premier indicated that the rebellion was spreading and that the most drastic measures were necessary. It is believed that more troops will be sent from England to Ireland forthwith.

The general belief that the rebellion had grown beyond Dublin county was borne out by the following statement made by Premier Asquith in Commons late in the afternoon:

"The situation in Ireland is still serious. The revolutionary movement is spreading, especially in the west. The British troops in Ireland are being reinforced adequately to deal with the movement.

"Important public buildings in Dublin are still held by the rebels. Street fighting is in progress. It is feared that the casualties will be 300 or more.

"There will be a full inquiry as to the causes and responsibility of the movement."

General Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British forces in Ireland, has been given full powers to suppress the rebellion, it was announced.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, and John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist, both expressed the hope in the House of Commons that no political capital would be made out of the rebellion.

The Prime Minister's statement as to conditions followed the admission by Lord Lansdowne, made in reply to Viscount Middleton's attack on the government, that although the situation in the provinces was not wholly satisfactory the information received was not sufficient to justify grave apprehension. There had been a small rising at Ardee and Louth, and a rather more serious one in Swords and Lusk, close to Dublin.

Viscount Middleton's attack was made in the House of Lords and was based on the failure of the government to take heed of warnings regarding activities of the Sinn Feiners. He asked what the government meant by saying Tuesday that the situation was well in hand.

REBELS IN CONTROL.

So far as his information went, at the time this assurance was given not only were rebels in possession of a number of prominent parts of Dublin, but no attempt had been made to dislodge them.

Viscount Middleton said he understood telegraphic communication with Dublin was almost entirely interrupted, that the rebels when they seized the post office cut the wires and cables to England.

The authorities, he continued, had been aware that large numbers of armed Sinn Feiners had been drilled constantly for some months, that they possessed explosives in considerable quantities and were well provided with money. These things, he declared, had been brought to the notice of the government by influential persons, with the urgent request that action be taken.

The present position of Ireland, he asserted in conclusion, was one of the greatest danger.

Lord Lansdowne, who replied, said he believed this outrage was doomed to ignominious failure, but he was not disposed to minimize the serious inconvenience likely to be occasioned by it. He said that on Monday, April 24, the rebels made a half-hearted attack on Dublin Castle, but the attack was not pressed. They then occupied St. Stephen's Green, held by troops which were returning from the barracks, fired on them from the roofs of buildings, seized the postoffice, city hall, the four courts and the Weston road and Amiens road railway stations, and telegraphic communication was interrupted.

Dublin has been brought under the guns of British warships that have anchored in Dublin Bay. The government and financial institutions are guarded by troops, and machine guns have been mounted upon the roofs of many buildings to sweep the streets.

That the government feared that the uprising might spread into civil war was shown by the speed with which troops and artillery were moved into Ireland from England. There are said to be at least 200,000 soldiers under arms in all parts of Ireland at the present time, and preparations have been made to send more.

In official circles belief is expressed that tranquility will be restored in southern Ireland very soon, although the uprising will leave behind it more bitter hatred than existed before and in its wake will follow a condition of affairs that will make it necessary for England to maintain strong bodies of troops in the island for an indefinite emergency.

The Express suggests the possibility that Sir Roger may be beheaded if found guilty, but in other quarters the belief exists that it would be almost impossible to hang Casement as was the case in South Africa when General De Wet, the leader of the Boer rebels, was captured. Sir Roger's case is different, however, as regards the political aspect. It is understood that papers, implicating prominent Irishmen were found upon his person.

Lord Wimborne, Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, is making every effort to regain peace and he will probably have the help of Augustine Birrell, Secretary for Ireland, very soon. Mr. Birrell's mission to Ireland, it is understood, is to study the situation at first hand and to confer with leaders of the Separatists.

CARSON CENSURED.

The Irish situation is holding first place in the public mind and is taking a prominent place in the deliberations of Parliament. Sir Edward Carson, the Irish Unionist, who threatened to precipitate a civil war in Ireland at the time the home rule bill was under consideration, is censured for strong censure for the part he played in widening the breach in Ireland. The Daily News says Sir Edward is largely to blame for the present situation. On the other hand, Sir Edward is attacking the government with vigor and his supporters are proclaiming that the present state of affairs will prove the doorway through which Carson will enter a strong position in the Cabinet.

There was a conference among Cabinet members during the morning at which the Irish revolt was discussed. It was expected that Premier Asquith would make an official statement later in the day, giving further details of the uprising and what steps the government have taken to cope with it and restore peace.

Hunt Anti-Britis' Irish-Americans

Washington, April 27.—A country-wide investigation of the activities of anti-British Irish-Americans was undertaken by the "neutrality squad" of the secret service and the Department of Justice.

Inquiries were ordered in a score of cities as to the possible connection of Irish-Americans with the Irish revolt which swept Dublin early in the week.

New York, Chicago, Washington, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Boston are among the cities where federal agents have been ordered to secure information.

Reports to the secret service and the Department of Justice following the announcement here of the British Ambassador Spring-Rice threatening to hold British subjects in this country responsible for the treatment accorded Sir Roger Casement, alleged leader of the Irish revolt, were discussing to the officials.

Information pointing to the probable complicity of Irish-Americans in the Dublin rebellion was transmitted from various points, particularly in New York. While the Department of Justice declined to comment on the situation it was understood that sweeping orders had been issued, which it will result in the surveillance of scores of suspects.

Irish-American leaders in Washington, while they declined to talk for publication expressed sympathy with the Irish separatists. Groups of Irish-Americans both in New York and Washington have been in close touch with the "Free Ireland" movement, and information as to the outbreak was available in Irish-American circles in the United States twenty-four hours before the British censors passed news dispatches telling of the revolt.

RAISED FUNDS HERE.

American members of the order Sinn Fein are reported to have been in touch with the plans of the Separatists for weeks, probably months, according to information available in Washington. Irish-American organizations and societies through out the country have been active since the beginning of the war in various forms of anti-British propaganda.

Washington authorities pointed out today that the previous colossal campaign of telegrams and letters swamping Congress to prevent a break between the United States and Germany is the work of German-American and Irish-American societies in co-operation.

The same organizations have been behind the propaganda for an embargo on arms and ammunition.

Information already in the hands of the Department of Justice connects certain individual Irish-Americans with various plots and conspiracies involving alleged violations of neutrality. As a result the Irish-American propagandists will be subjected to the sweeping investigation ordered today.

SAYS U. S. AID TO BRITAIN FOILED CASEMENT PLANS

By International News Service.

New York, April 27.—Flat charges that President Wilson and the Government of the United States thwarted German aid to the Irish revolution, are made by John Devoy, president and editor of the Gaelic American.

Mr. Devoy, long a leader in Irish-American affairs and an ardent advocate of the Irish Volunteers' cause, refused to be interviewed on his charges at his office, No. 165 William street, but let it be understood his comments and news articles stood for himself.

The editorial declares:

"The sinking of the German ship loaded with arms and ammunition on the Irish coast was the direct result of information given to the British government by members of the Washington Administration.

"It was a deadly blow aimed at the heart of Ireland.

AID TO BRITISH CHARGED.

"Wilson's officials obtained the information by an act of lawlessness—a violation of international law and of American law—and connived with the deliberate purpose of helping England, and were promptly pleased at the discomfiture of the British government.

"Footwarmed by this most disgraceful and dishonorable act committed by an American President, the British fleet, which had been baffled and eluded by the Irish-born German cruiser, was sent to the right spot, the cruiser was sunk and the Irish people deprived of the means of fighting for their rights and liberties.

"So was America's rightful expression of gratitude for the services of Irishmen in the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Civil War and the Spanish War. But the American people had no part in the treachery.

MAKES GRAVE ACCUSATION.

The Gaelic American says:

"The worst blow the insurgents received was the sinking of the German auxiliary cruiser with a load of arms and ammunition aboard.

"In the silence with which the first blow was delivered proved the secret well kept. There was no informer or British spy who was able to learn the plans of the insurgents, for the deliberately was moulded by the Washington government.

A news story on the first page contains this assertion:

"There is not the shadow of a doubt that it was this information from Washington, obtained by a gross breach of international faith and trampling on American law, which deprived the Irish people of the means necessary to carry on the fight for their very existence as a people.

ATTACKS ENGLISH FORCE.

But for this alleged interference, all Munster would have been armed, it is said, and the entire English army of some 80,000 in Ireland would have been routed or captured.

The Gaelic American declares this would have been an easy task because the English force is "of poor material, not fully trained and officered by incompetent men, recently appointed from civil life."

In conclusion, the Gaelic American's editorial declares the Irish of the country will remember the action in future elections.

U. S. SECURED CASEMENT FACTS FROM VON IGEL PAPERS

By International News Service.

Washington, April 27.—It was learned from an authentic source that the papers taken by Department of Justice agents from Wolf von Igel, a member of the German Embassy in New York, contained documents relating to the revolt in Ireland.

The papers were seized on April 18, and the German vessel carrying arms and ammunition to Ireland was sunk on the night of April 20-21.

It could not be ascertained whether this government secured the information relating to Ireland before April 20.

No confirmation could be obtained of the charge made by John Devoy, editor of the Gaelic American, that the United States had warned Great Britain after examining the von Igel documents.

TELL HOW SIR ROGER DODGED BRITISH NAVY

By International News Service.

London, April 27.—Sir Roger Casement is now a prisoner in the Tower of London, according to the Daily Mail. He occupies the apartment where Carr Lords, the German spy, spent the night before his execution. The account in the Daily Mail continues:

About the time that the report was circulated from Copenhagen that Casement had been arrested in Germany, he really had boarded the German submarine in Kiel harbor, which, in company with the tramp steamer, flying a neutral flag, began the voyage which ended off the coast of Ireland ten days later.

CHALLENGED BY BRITISH.

The tramp was actually a German vessel manned by twenty men from the German navy and commanded by a lieutenant. The cargo consisted of about 20,000 rifles, machine guns and ammunition hidden beneath stools which the manifest declared was the sole cargo.

The tramp with the submarine in close attendance crept through the Cattegat, across Bohus Bay, and up the coast of Norway, always keeping within territorial waters.

It then struck north and west on a course which left the Orkneys and Shetland islands far to the south, but at the very moment when the German commander was congratulating himself on having eluded the British, a patrol boat, flying a white ensign, hustled up and demanded the reason for the presence of a peaceful trader so far to the north.

The commander's excuse was the dangers of the channel mine field. He produced the ship's papers. These were all in order. There was no sign of the convoying submarine, which submerged when the British patrol boat was sighted.

AGAIN IS HAILED.

The vessel was allowed to proceed. It then shaped a new course south, and off the north coast of Ireland was sighted by another British patrol which appeared and fired a shot across the tramp's bows and signaled:

"Am boarding you."

Then the supposed neutral was ordered to accompany the patrol.

The rest is already known. It is understood the submarine commander received orders before leaving Kiel that whatever befell the expedition, the presence of Casement was no longer desired in Germany. Hence, when the German commander saw his plans had miscarried, he ordered Casement into a boat and left him to his fate.

Demands Probe of Telegrams to Senate

Washington, April 27.—In a stirring speech on the floor of the Senate this afternoon, Senator Husting of Wisconsin demanded a Congressional investigation into the flood of telegrams pouring into Congress on the German-American situation.

He charged that the telegrams were all inspired by a central source.

Senator Husting characterized the sending of the telegrams as a "deep laid plot to outlaw the minds of the people with the belief that the President wants war."

"I bring this matter before the Senate in the hope of exposing a plot which, if allowed to continue, may bring us into serious trouble at home if not abroad, and to defeat the purpose of people who in the garb of the Prince of Peace are endeavoring to stir up dissension in this country," he said.

"We ought to have a very careful inquiry and find out who is putting up the money for putting this foul stuff into the mouths of the people."

HOUSE STANDS PAT ON MILK BILL VOTE

The crusade against unclean milk was defeated by the House of Representatives today. A motion to reconsider the action by which the House had killed the Melaughlin bill, to secure State supervision over the production, care and distribution of milk in the interest of public health, was voted down, 108 to 107.

MUST PAY FORMER WIFE $10 A WEEK

Lawrence Cushman, treasurer and general manager of a brick company at East Bridgewater, was ordered today by the Superior Court to pay his former wife $10 a week alimony and to pay for the support of their five-year-old daughter, Virginia. Cushman was formerly connected with a biscuit company in New Bedford at a salary of $50 a week, but is now getting $15 a week. The case was heard by Judge Fox on Cushman's motion to modify the decree of the divorce court ordering him to pay $20 a week. Cushman married Agnes in January, and his present wife owns the stock of the brick company, with the exception of two shares, one of which is held by Cushman, and the other by his father. Judge Fox refused Cushman's request for the right to see his child.

THREAT IN MEXICO'S DEMANDS

El Paso, April 27.—An ultimatum demanding the immediate withdrawal of American troops from Mexico, with a declaration of war as an alternative, is expected from General Obregon, Mexico's Minister of War, at the conference with Generals Scott and Funston.

Obregon reached Chihuahua City early today.

This threat, made serious by the position of the American troops now in Mexico and tactically cut off from retreat, is expected if Generals Scott and Funston refuse to bind the United States to grant four demands to be presented by Obregon.

"U. S. MUST QUIT."

These four demands are said to be as follows:

1—That the United States name a "dead line" south of which it does not expect to send its forces in the hunt for Villa;

2—That the United States name a definite date for the withdrawal of its soldiers from Mexico regardless of whether Villa is captured or his followers "dispersed";

3—That the United States must not expect the use of any railway section of railway for any purpose if the expedition remains, and,

4—Under no circumstances must the United States send more troops across the border.

Failure on the part of the United States to agree to these demands will, it is said, be met with the ultimatum for the immediate withdrawal of the American troops under threat of war.

It was learned here that First Chief Carranza is already on his way from Mexico City to Vera Cruz, abandoning his palace and the de facto government to M. Mirelos, Governor of Coahuila, and his former confidential secretary.

REPORT SERIOUS BREACH.

This information has raised serious doubt that Obregon bears authority to confer with representatives of the United States as the accredited spokesman for the Mexican government.

The news that Carranza has left Mexico City tends to confirm the report that there has been a breach between the First Chief and Obregon.

The Mexico City dispatches are regarded here as confirming the threatened disintegration of the Carranza government. The opinion has also been expressed in military circles that unless General Scott is authorized to deal with Obregon as the actual head of the Constitutionalist cause the conference must be called off.

Constitutionalist leaders here say that no matter what proposals General Scott makes regarding the future disposition of the American forces in Mexico, Obregon will counter with the four demands which he will insist must be met.

WILL ASK EXPLANATION.

It was learned today, however, that the Mexican Minister of War will ask an explanation of the fact that the expedition sent to hunt down Francisco Villa has been considerably increased since the de facto government demanded the recall of the expedition.

At present there are at least 17,000 troops south of the border.

It is understood that all the 2,200 reinforcements which were hastened to Columbus have crossed the boundary into Mexican territory.

General Obregon is also expected to ask assurances that the United States lend its full aid to the Mexican government by stopping coup plots hatched on American soil, and also discovery built the operations of gunrunners and ammunition smugglers, who have supplied the Mexican revolutionists with arms to fight the recognized authorities in the southern republic.

Mexican officials claim that they have given the American authorities adequate information about these operations to enable them to crush the malcreants, but that filibustering has continued without interruption.

The point the Mexican officials now make is this:

"If the Americans fail to stop these unlawful acts in their own country, by what right do they demand permission to act across the border against the outlaws who have been aided and abetted from American soil with American arms and ammunition."

One of the cases in point is that of General Salazar, the Mexican revolutionist who went into Mexico from El Paso after the Mexican authorities had requested the American secret service agents to watch him closely. He is now reported to have gathered a formidable band, fully equipped, south of the border town of Ojinaga.

Obregon Orders Mexicans Mobilize

By International News Service.

Presidio, Tex., April 27.—Captain Telesforo Dominguez, of the Ojinaga garrison, left here with a detachment of men ostensibly to oppose the advance of Jose York Salazar against that town. Salazar ten days ago crossed the border to foment a new revolution.

Carranza officers in northern Mexico have received two wire communications signed jointly by Carranza and Obregon and one communication signed by Obregon alone. All were dated Mexico City, April 21, and contained phrasing significant in view of the present aspect of the situation.

The dispatch signed by Obregon alone orders all Carranza commanders to call in isolated detachments and posts and to concentrate for defensive purposes which may be necessary in the near future.

"The gravity of the situation caused by continued presence of American troops compels the Mexican provisional government to take certain measures," states the message, "that hitherto it had been hoped could be avoided."

The message declares that the artillery of the army of the south is on its way north by special train, accompanied by a large number of soldiers.

It emphasizes that under no consideration shall United States troops be permitted to occupy any city, town or village, and intimates that it is hoped the American forces will not force the issue by remaining longer in Mexico.

ARRANGE PLANS TO AID JEWS IN RUSSIA

The Hague, April 27.—Isadore Hershfield of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of New York, who has arrived here from Berlin, announced that arrangements have been sanctioned for assistance for distressed Jews and other inhabitants in the district under the domain of Field Marshal von Hindenburg in Russia.

Distressed persons will be able to communicate with relatives in America by means of postals printed in German, Polish and Yiddish, giving brief family news and money needs.

GENERAL OBREGON and his bride. Obregon is to meet with General Scott and General Funston on the Mexican border to discuss the possible withdrawal of United States troops. He is reputed to have broken with Carranza. He lost his right arm in a battle against Villa.

'LOVE WIFE TELLS OF ROMANCE

New York, April 27.—"All my life I had been hungering for a great love such as this, and I did not see the great moral abyss that it might lead to."

In these words Mrs. Ida Sniffen, who was yesterday acquitted of the murder of her two children, summed up the tragic love story which culminated in the Bronx Supreme Court.

The statement was made after a jury of twelve married men, eleven of them parents, had refused to believe that a "notoriously loving mother could have been in her right mind when she poisoned her two children."

Although District Attorney Martin has intimated that he will drop the white slave indictment against Rogers, the latter declared that he wishes to have it tried.

In a scathing denunciation of the district attorney, Rogers declared that he does not care to go into court and submit the evidence on which the indictment was procured.

Mrs. Rogers and her husband broke down and wept when the verdict was announced, but recovered in a short time and went to their apartments. It is understood that they will go back to the country, where the woman will have an opportunity to recuperate.

"Almost everyone that has ever had anything to do with Lorlys Elton Rogers has loved him," said his "love wife."

"All my life I had been hungering for a great love, such as this, and I did not see the great moral abyss that it might lead to.

CONFESSED TO WIFE.

"When our first baby, little John, came, Lorlys and I talked the situation over seriously, and he resolved to make a full confession to his wife and appeal to her generosity. Well, he did tell her all about me and our child, but she did not do as we had hoped she would.

"So we lived on with that one ray of hope—that the divorce would come in good time.

"I lived simply as I could, saving every penny and going without many accustomed luxuries. Another baby came, and then—then I knew that one day, there would be a third."

It was at that critical period, when a woman's mind is most impressionable, that Rogers one night brought her the distressing news that there was no prospect of his divorce. It was after he left her that she administered bichloride of mercury to the two children and herself.

CHILD PLEADS FOR FATHER'S RETURN

Little Martin Kesselman, aged four, came into the AMERICAN office with his mama and asked the editor to help find his papa. Philip Kesselman, of No. 6 Hollander street, Roxbury, who disappeared Saturday, January 8, left Martin, named in his plea by his brother Charlie, ten, and William, six. They cannot figure why their daddy should remain away so long.

Kesselman is a paperhanger. He is thirty-three years of age, five foot four, weighs 120, and wore a dark blue suit, black overcoat and derby when he went way. Mrs. Kesselman's brother-in-law met Kesselman in Eliot street five days after his disappearance and spoke to him, not knowing that he was listed as missing. Mrs. Kesselman is very apprehensive.

MORGENTHAU'S LETTER ACCEPTED

Washington, April 27.—President Wilson today accepted the resignation of Henry Morgenthau, Ambassador to Turkey. Official announcement to that effect was made at the White House.

TELLS HOW JUNKMAN WAS SLAIN

Fearing his life would be taken, Joseph Rogers fled from Frank J. Tracey at Coney Island, following the murder of Samuel W. Cohan, according to an alleged confession of Rogers read in court today.

In this alleged confession Rogers said:

"Tracey told me that if he got me in the right place he would kill me, so when we reached Coney Island I ran away and went to Jersey City."

The alleged confession was read by Captain Ainsleo C. Armstrong, to whom it was said to have been made on June 14 at headquarters in the presence of Inspector Towle and Sergeant Livingstone. In it Rogers accused Tracey of firing the shot which killed the junkman, and said that his own revolver would not work, as he had tried it the night before.

HAD HOLD UP PLAN.

Rogers said the original plan was to "stick up" four or five junkmen to secure $50 or $60 with which the men intended to go West.

One of the most dramatic stories in the history of the Suffolk county court was told on the witness stand by Morris Tattel, a junk dealer.

Tattel told of how he crouched, terror stricken, in a closet in the kitchen of the West Springfield street house while Cohen was robbed and murdered. He repeated the threat of death made to him if he so much as coughed, and described how when the door was opened, he saw one of the men climbing up the body of the murdered man, who had been kicked under a couch.

After identifying Tracey and Rogers as the "big fellow" and "little fellow," respectively, Tattel began his story, in response to questions. Although handicapped by his unfamiliarity with the English language, and frequently forced to hesitate over a word, Tattel gave a vivid recital.

"On Saturday, May 29, about 10:30 in the morning," he said "the big fellow and the little fellow came to the place where I keep my cart, at the corner of Cabot and Windsor streets, and asked if I bought junk. They said they had some and if I wanted to buy to come along with them and take my cart.

"ROBBED OF $16."

"I went with them to Shawmut avenue, where they told me to leave the cart. I left it near the curbstone, and took two bags out of it. I went with them into the basement of the West Springfield house. We went into the kitchen and then into the cellar. In the cellar they said 'Throw your hands up,' and they had two revolvers.

"I put my hands up and the big fellow put his hand in my pocket and took $16. They they took me back to the kitchen and opened a cloat door and put me in. One of them said to be quiet and not move and they would give me a chance to live.

"I stood there a long while, and heard the noon whistle blow. Later I heard the two men in another room talk about copper. I heard the other man say he paid eight cents per copper and one of the two men said 'I can get ten cents for it.' Then both of them said 'Hold up your hands,' and I heard a shot and a heavy fall.

"A little afterward they opened the closet door and the big fellow had a bundle of money in his left hand and a revolver in his right hand. The little fellow had a revolver by his side. The big fellow pointed to the man on the floor and said: 'How is it you only had $16 and this man had $32?' I told them I would take my clothes off and if I had $1,000 I would give it to them, as I wanted my life.

"The body was under an iron couch. I could see the head. The big fellow pushed the body with his foot and said, 'Get in there.' Then they closed the door and opened it again, and the big fellow had a piece of rag in one hand and an iron pot in the other.

"He put the rag in the pot, on the floor and with the rag washed up the blood and squeezed it into the pot. Then he moved the couch and asked me if I knew the man. I said no.

THREAT OF DEATH.

"After awhile I coughed and they opened the door and the little fellow pointed a revolver at me and said: 'If you cough again we will do the same to you as we did to this fellow. We are prepared to kill a dozen cops.'"

'Snake' Car Goes On a Rampage in Sullivan Square

One of the new "snake" cars for Sullivan square went on a rampage today when it jumped the switch at the corner of Pearl and Cross streets, Somerville.

It struck an automobile standing in front of Hosmer & Wedgwood's real estate office, owned by Luther J. Wedgwood of No. 16 Madison st., Somerville, overturning the machine and completely demolishing it.

The car then went on its way and left the wreck scene of Louis F. Merry, company, driven by George C. Conant of No. 169 Walnut avenue, Somerville, standing in crossing into the Cross street office window of the Wedgwood real estate office, scattering its contents in all directions.

The horse of the bakery wagon was also injured. The car was finally brought under control, but traffic over the Mystic and Tufts square line was blocked for some time. Motorman Murray was the motorman.

CONVICT IN ARNOLD SEARCH

Says Now He Can Also Turn Air Into Nitrogen

By International News Service.

New York, April 27.—Professor Williams, inventor of the New York police, is now experimenting with a new device for converting air into nitrogen, which he declares will be of great value to farmers in increasing the fertility of their soil.

In order to test the value of the device, which he declares can isolate nitrogen, he declares that he will submit to arrest on charges of peddling and to compel the New York police solve the case.

Rhode Island authorities declared that it was a case for the police to conduct. They refused to permit the convict a temporary parole to search the state and also interposed technical objections to the release of the convict to a second commission, a legal opinion having rendered to the State of Rhode Island that he had left.

To add to the complication, there exists an old Rhode Island law which requires the warden of the state prison to act as executor of the convict's unexpired term. A warrant was issued by the governor of Rhode Island for the arrest of Arnold.

Lawyers assert that the right to allow clemency is up with the New York police, owing to the fact that the body of the Arnold girl and then returned to Rhode Island for burial in the Rhode Island parole board.

The parole board may grant the request of the New York police, they believe, but has the right to parole Gallagher in the custody of either the New York parole board, or in the custody of any officer in the state designated by either board, providing however, that the custodian of the parole officer is a responsible person.

At the absence of Governor Beeckman, who will not return for three weeks, Lieutenant-Governor Emery J. Lan Dry is acting governor. His private secretary, Arnold Baldwin, and Secretary Lauriston Bullard and Walter Wiggin, the latter secretary, Doris G. Arnold.

Gallagher is wanted on eighteen counts and $50 fine on June 24, 1915. Miscellaneous charges allowed put him behind the bars for a year and a half.

Gallagher, while waiting trial in the county jail, was released on parole, remaining one of Henry J. Gaston's secretaries. Lauriston Bullard and Walter Wiggin, the latter secretary, Doris G. Arnold.

A Good Cook Knows Her Fuel

If you want the clearest, hottest flame with complete freedom from smoke and odor, you should be careful about what goes into the reservoir of your oil stove.

All Kerosene is not alike by any means. And the good kind is enough better to be decidedly worth asking for.

Say "Socony" (So-CO-ny) to the grocer's boy when he comes to take your oil can. In that way you can be sure of getting reliable fuel—Socony Kerosene Oil, which is the Standard Oil Company of New York's best kerosene.

Socony Kerosene is absolutely clean and clear-burning whenever and wherever you buy it. It does not make wick crust—you do not need to clean the burners so often and you get a bigger money's worth of heat.

Look for the Socony sign in the windows of groceries, hardware and general stores everywhere which carry Socony Kerosene Oil. It is the sign of quality and a reliable dealer.

We recommend the following oil burning devices as the best of their kind: New Perfection Oil Cook-stoves and Water Heaters, Perfection Smokeless Oil Heaters, Rayo Lamps and Lanterns.

KAISER EAGER TO AVOID BREAK

Analysis of the American note causes it to be viewed by German officialdom as less stringent than first hasty perusal and advance bulletins had indicated.

Its seriousness is in no way understood, but moderation is shown in most of the editorial comments in the Berlin and provincial press. U. S. TO TAKE ISSUE WITH GREAT BRITAIN'S LAST NOTE

Washington, April 27.—A new note to Great Britain, pointing out that no concessions have been made to the requests of the United States, and emphasizing the claim that Great Britain's position was undue interference with neutral commerce, was predicted by officials here today.

According to these high officials, moreover, the government of the United States will not follow Great Britain's suggestion to head a league of neutral nations for the protection of neutral rights. Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign minister, it was said, is well aware through official announcements that the United States would not act jointly with European countries in matters affecting the war.

REFUSED TO ACT WITH SWEDEN.

When the Swedish minister, W. A. F. Ekengren, proposed in behalf of his government that the United States and Sweden make joint complaints against violations of neutral rights, Secretary Lansing replied that this country preferred to pursue its traditional policy of acting independently.

The Netherlands minister, Chevealley van Raphard, has stated that his government will not concur with others protesting against invasions of the rights by the warring countries.

Norway and Denmark would be willing to take joint action, it was said, together with Sweden. It was added that Switzerland would not become a member of such a league, as she has no interests at stake at sea.

TAKE ISSUE WITH BRITAIN.

Spain, it is stated, would not be likely to enter the proposed league, as it is her hope not to become involved in any of the controversies arising from the war, and to be selected as the seat of the eventual peace conference.

RUSSIAN TROOPS AID IN THE DEFENCE OF VERDUN

By CHARLES F. BERTELLI, International News Staff Correspondent.

London, April 27.—The German bombardment of the Verdun front is increasing in violence, and it is believed the new attacks which usually follow such a terrific cannonade will be launched tonight or tomorrow. It is understood in Paris that as May 6 is the birthday of Crown Prince Frederick William, the Kaiser is anxious to capture Verdun by that date or secure dominating positions for the German troops that will assure their victory.

The official French communique issued this afternoon reports only one infantry attack by the Germans. This was made in the Forges sector by small forces and was repulsed.

According to the French communique, the Germans centred their bombardment last night on the French positions near Avocourt and at Cote du Poivre, Pepper Heights. These two points, situated on the west and east banks of the Meuse River, a key position in the defence of the French fortress.

The fighting during the nine days that are to elapse before the Crown Prince celebrates his birthday is expected to witness in ferocious all the sanguinary conflicts that have marked the German operations against Verdun. Immense French forces, supported by Russian reinforcements, have been concentrated to meet the attacks.

The text of the French communique follows:

"North of the Aisne several German attacks were repulsed with grenades.

"On the region of Verdun there was a most intense bombardment directed against the Avocourt redoubt and our organizations at Cote du Poivre. A feeble attack by the enemy upon a trench element north of Vaux was quickly crushed by our curtain of fire.

"In Lorraine we discovered a German reconnoitering party which attempted to approach our positions east of Leintrey.

"On the rest of the front there was no artillery action outside of the usual bombardments."

ZEPPELINS MAKE NEW RAID IN ENGLAND

London, April 27.—The War Office announces that Saturday night's Zeppelin raid on the east coast of England was the most extensive of its kind yet undertaken by the Germans. Besides dropping bombs on the mining districts of Yorkshire, the Zeppelins flew over Lincolnshire and Norfolk, and dropped bombs in the vicinity of Sandringham, the royal country estate of King George.

Twenty-two persons were killed and 67 injured, according to official reports. Two persons were killed at Lowestoft by bombs dropped from a Zeppelin which passed over the town early Sunday morning.

The Zeppelins that made a raid over the east coast Tuesday night dropped bombs on Yarmouth and Lowestoft, but there were no casualties. Two persons were killed and 14 injured in the raid of Saturday night and the lightness of the casualties is ascribed to the fact that the wind had been forced to flow at a short time.

A correspondent in a town of Essex says that a Zeppelin was picked up one night at the outskirts of the town and was adding to it some of the ammunition. It is the opinion of many that the Zeppelins were directed against the city of London by the darkness of the moon and the lightness of the sky, which made it possible to see the wind but were forced to flee after a short time.

SHEPARD NORWELL COMPANY

IS EMPLOYED BY BOSTON ELEVATED

George E. Ashe of 24 Corey Street, Medford Hillside, Is Praising Plant Juice.

"It is indeed pleasant to feel that my efforts are meeting with such encouragement," said Mr. George E. Ashe, Man, who has his headquarters in the Drug Department of the Hingham-Cushing Dutton store, in a recent interview. Continuing, he said:

"Plant Juice is compounded from the extracts of medicinal plants, herbs, roots, barks and berries, the fruits of an exhaustive research, and this method of introducing these healing agents in order to accomplish the greatest possible good, is the result of years of study about the efficiency of this preparation, as some of its users have testified of life, in every one of the large cities which I have visited, and have personally witnessed experiments with this formula and were not long convinced of the fact that it accomplishes. I am certain that I would not have interested myself as I have in this matter.

"Every day I am in receipt of signed testimonials from the well known local people verifying the above statement. For instance, the following letter just received from Mr. George E. Ashe, who resides at No. 24 Corey Street, Medford Hillside, and is a well-known employee of the Boston Elevated R. R. Company, states:

"For 15 years I suffered from indigestion and dyspepsia. Everything I ate would ferment in my stomach and cause gas to form there, and I suffered agony after eating. So bad at times that I had actually had to live on the lightest kind of a diet, as I could not take anything solid into my mouth. I was so nervous I could not sleep at night and felt all tired out in the morning. As I got no benefit from anything I had taken, I decided to try Plant Juice and see what it would do for me. I have now taken three bottles and it has put my entire system in fine condition. I can eat anything and digest it, sleep well and never felt better in my life. I am glad to recommend Plant Juice, for it has made a new man of me."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Hingham-Cushing Dutton Co.'s store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Advertisement

PIMPLES COVERED BABY'S HEAD

Became One Scale Which Was Awful to Look At. Burning and Itching All the Time. Began on Body.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"Baby was five days old when I first noticed that her head was covered with red pimples. The trail of her head became one scale which was awful to look at. She could by awake trying to get at it, it was burning and itching so all the time. After a while it began to break out on her body. My baby was an awful looking sight.

"Baby was a sufferer for six weeks before I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and her body and head were disfigured with scales. In a few days my baby was well and ever." (Signed) Mrs. H. F. Hitchow, R. F. D. No. 2, Shelburne Harbor, Vt., July 1, 1915.

BLACKHEADS GO QUICK BY THIS SIMPLE METHOD

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—are caused by excessive secretions under the body, so quick by a simple method that just absolves them. To do this get about two ounces of powdered peroxin from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge—rub over the blackheads and leave for a few seconds—and wash off. Every particle where the sponge touches the blackheads the powdered peroxin and the blackheads will disappear. Rub them, squeeze them, and even the largest heads will come out easily—whitened and the pores open and unsightly—and unless the blackheads are all gone wait and repeat the simple application at night and water dissolves them right away. The skin is left soft and the pores in their natural condition. You can get powdered peroxin at any drug store and if you are troubled with blackheads or unsightly complexion you should certainly try this simple method.—Advertisement.

BILLY SUNDAY TABERNACLE BANNED BY M'CALL'S VETO

bill for additional fire protection for horses and mules in stables. To this he added:

"It would be in striking contrast with that action to approve of a law dispensing in any degree with reasonable precautions for the protection of human lives.

The veto message in full follows:

I return herewith without my approval an engrossed bill entitled "An act relative to the construction and use of buildings in the Boston Sandbar Evangelistic Committee, Inc. (See House No. 1063.)

The bill authorizes the construction of a building for the use of the Boston Sandbar with a hall or assembly room large enough to contain an audience of more than 10,000 persons and provides that in certain very important particulars this building may be of third class construction.

The Legislature has passed a building law for the city of Boston, designed primarily to provide for the protection of people against the hazards of fire and of panic, under which such buildings as assembly halls are required to be of fireproof construction.

WOULD LESSEN DANGER.

The engrossed bill would permit the substitution of wood for fireproof material in the construction of the sides of the building. In my opinion, such a substitution would materially increase the danger from fire or from panic.

There is no limitation upon the maximum capacity of the building. Although it must be large enough to contain at least 10,000 people, it may be large enough to hold twice that number. At the best, there are elements of grave danger in the collection of enormous crowds inside any building. That danger should be kept at a minimum rather than increased.

If such ares assembly halls can safely be built of wood instead of more solid material then the law should be changed and permit the use of wood for smaller buildings. If the lawmaking power should set aside a general statute designed to secure the public safety and perceptibly increase the risk it would incur a heavy burden if a disaster should happen to take place.

Chances have many times been taken without serious results and then of a sudden some terrible catastrophe has occured in a fire or panic to a ship at sea which has startled the world. If such a disaster should result from legislative action doing away with existing precautions for safety a very grave responsibility would fall upon the law-making power.

RISK IS GREAT

The Legislature has sent me a bill which I have just signed requiring additional fire protection in stables for horses and mules, and it would be in striking contrast with that action to approve of a law dispensing in any degree with reasonable precautions for the protection of human beings.

If the issue involved related only to the purpose for which the structure is to be built I should sign the bill without hesitation, but a meritorious purpose is nowise warrants the Legislature in dispensing with the safeguards which it has heretofore act up under general laws for the protection of people who assemble in large halls.

I am informed that the saving in cost by the use of wood in the proposed building would be immaterial, but even if it were great it would in my opinion afford no justification for the bill.

Much stress was made by the tabernacle committee that the wooden construction was demanded by Billy Sunday on account of its superior acoustic properties. It was hinted that the famous evangelist would cancel his Boston engagement if a brick tabernacle was forced upon him.

Opponents of the exemption privilege claimed that fire might be started quicker in a wooden structure. To this the friends of the bill answered that the sidewalls would be of such light construction that they could easily be pushed out in case of panic, so the building could be emptied rapidly.

Building Commissioner Patrick O'Hern of Boston was in conference with the Governor yesterday. It was said around the State House corridors that the commissioner was opposed to the bill.

HAD LIVELY HISTORY.

After the veto message was read in the House it was placed in the orders of the day, to be taken up for action when reached in due turn, on account of the widespread attention that the tabernacle controversy has attracted the veto may be sustained by a definite majority for the time. When it does come before the House for disposition the question will be: "Shall this act pass, notwithstanding the veto of His Excellency, the Governor?"

If the House overturns the veto the question then goes to the Senate that if the House accepts its veto then the tabernacle bill is ended.

You bill has had a lively legislative history. It was rejected adversely by the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs. The adverse report was tipped over in the House and the bill was passed to be engrossed by a close vote.

On its first reading in the Senate the bill was killed. Friends of the bill jumped into the fight vigorously. The next day a reconsideration vote was passed by the Senate. Later the original bill was passed after a bitter fight. Then it went to the conference committee and later the time limit for the veto would have expired.

Fine Medford Boys for Other Auto 'Thefts'

Antonio Parisi and Wesley T. Ambrose, the Medford boys who were fined $1 each in Malden court yesterday for an automobile escapade in Medford on Tuesday night, were fined $50 apiece in Cambridge court today for having unlawfully appropriated four automobiles in Arlington at different times. They appealed.

The "joy ride" referred to a car in Medford Tuesday night and were given high speed over a reckless ride when they were overhauled and captured by Major Haines and police from another city.

The police fired shots in the course of their pursuit. The capture of Parisi was effected by Officer Lake in their arrest on the Arlington-Cambridge border and has been lauded by Medford chief.

On its first reading in the senate the bill was killed. Friends of the bill jumped into the fight vigorously. The next day a reconsideration vote was passed by the Senate. Later the original bill was passed after a bitter fight. Then it went to the conference committee and later the time limit for the veto would have expired.

Strengthen Your Brain

Just as an athlete trains his muscles to do more and better work, so can a man strengthen his brain to do increased work. So says Dr. William Lee Howard, the eminent alienist, in an article in next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

URGES PLANTING OF VACANT LOTS TO INCREASE FOOD SUPPLY

Whether New England can hold its own in manufacturing was discussed today by President Kenyon L. Butterfield of Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, before the second day's session of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in the Copley-Plaza.

Dr. Butterfield in the course of his address said New England might again produce considerable wool, eventually flax, and even silk, but it would not be expected that New England would ever again contribute generously to the supply of raw material for any sort of manufacture.

In talking upon the conditions of New England, he added:

"There are probably a million people in New England living under substantially rural conditions. Their purchasing ability is not to be ignored, but even if their number should be doubled in a generation, which is the height of optimism, this fact would not play a decisive part in the future of New England manufacturing from the consuming point of view.

"The present value of agricultural products grown in New England is probably not less than $300,000,000 annually. It is within reason to prophesy that this value may be doubled and possibly trebled within a generation.

UTILIZE THE SOIL.

He called upon the working men of New England to increase the food supply in these words:

"As it is not possible, entirely apart from what the New England farmers may produce for the world's needs, for New England, that the working man himself may do something to increase the quantity and quality of his food supply?

"There are three or four ways in which it is conceivable that the artisan may utilize the soil to his advantage and to the advantage of his employers.

"1—By the use of vacant lots in the cities, either by individuals or by colonies.

"There is not a city in this State, even Boston itself, but what has considerable areas that are unproductive because they are awaiting use for buildings. They are too valuable to yield an investment for the purpose of growing things to eat, but they may have a transient use that would be very helpful to hundreds of families.

"2—Wherever a manufacturing industry is located in suburbs or in a village, there is more or less opportunity and encouragement for working men to live in houses with gardens attached.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS.

"3—I have already referred to the boys' and girls' agricultural clubs from the educational point of view. Last year a Brockton school boy, as one-twentieth of an acre, grew products that sold for $95, received $12 in prizes for exhibits, and canned surplus products valued at $28.

"This total income of $125 was secured by an outlay of $15, leaving a net return of $110 from one-twentieth of an acre for the lad's labor."

Other papers read befor the members were: "Calico Printing; Its Origin and Development," by Robert Reech, Phoenix, R. I.; "The Cotton of Ancient Peru," by Morris DeCamp Crawford, research associate in textiles, American Museum of Natural History, Seventy-seventh street and Central Park West, New York city; "Does the Comber Remove Short Fibres," by William E. Hatch and William Smith, New Hedford Textile School, New Hedford; "Cotton Handling in Southern Warehouses," by John R. Snodyee, E. F. Jeter, chief engineer of the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company, Hartford, Ct.

A Farwell Bemis of Boston was elected today president of the association. The other officers elected were: Vice-presidents, W. Frank Shove of Fall River and Russell B. Lowe of Fitchburg, Mass.; directors for three years, Philip Y. DeNormandie and Herbert Lyman of Boston and H. M. Miller, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C.; director for one year, John E. Rousmaniere of New York.

CURED HIMSELF OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

A Missouri Man After Drinking for Thirty-Five Years Banished His Craving for Liquor With a Simple Home Recipe.

Mr. Thos. J. O'Bannon, a well known resident of Missouri, living at R. F. D. No. 3, Fredericktown, Mo., banished his craving for liquor with a simple recipe which he mixed at home.

Mr. O'Bannon recently made the following statement: "I am 51 years old and had drank for thirty-five years. My craving was so great I could not quit liquor. More than a year ago I had the following simple recipe filled and began taking it and it entirely banished my craving for liquor. To 3 oz. of water add 3½ grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varfex Compound and 10 grains of pepsin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. Any druggist can mix it for you or supply the ingredients at very little cost. This recipe can be taken of your own accord or given to anyone secretly in coffee, tea, milk or in food, as it has no taste, color or smell and is perfectly harmless. I believe any drunkard can cure himself with this simple recipe."

Little Details of Beauty

Madame Lina Cavalieri explains some things that women must never forget if they would be beautiful, in next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

LAST EFFORT TO AVERT COAL STRIKE

New York, April 27.—When the joint conference committees of the anthracite miners and operators met in session this afternoon for a final discussion of their differences, there was almost no hope for a compromise.

The miners were standing firm upon their demand for the closed shop, and the operators were just as strongly opposed to it.

The question of the closed shop was the only stumbling block to peace, for concessions had been made by both sides on other points in dispute. A majority of the representatives of both sides held the view that a strike was inevitable.

W. G. Adams, secretary to John P. White, the president of the Miners' Union, declared that a settlement seemed hopeless.

If an open break occurs, the miners will decide on May 2, at Pottsville, Pa., when they shall go out.

RUSH OF WORK IN PORTSMOUTH YARD

Portsmouth, N. H. April 27.—Although this was Fast Day and a legal holiday in New Hampshire, between 700 and 800 employes in the clerical and mechanical divisions of the local navy yard were obliged to work to meet the rush orders. The battle cruiser Montana arrived today from Havana, and is to be repaired "all speedily as possible."

Woman Dies of Gas, Clasping Son's Picture

Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, 60 years of age, of No. 25 Glendale street, Dorchester, was found unconscious in bed today, a photograph of her son clasped in her breast.

The gas jets were turned on and door and windows were closed.

She died before the ambulance reached the hospital.

Her husband, Daniel C. Martin, who slept in an adjoining room, had risen to go to the kitchen to prepare breakfast and smelled gas. He broke open the door to the room and shut off the escaping gas, but found that death had come before he opened the bedroom door.

He telephoned to the Fields Corner station in an effort to save his wife's life. He said she had not complained upon retiring last night.

BIRD SATISFIED AT PRIMARY VOTE

The contest is over, and so far as I am concerned all differences are forgotten.

I were into it to give the people a chance to express themselves and they have done so.

I have no regrets and no disappointments. My hope is that the nominee at Chicago may be of big enough size to win.

FILIBUSTER TO DELAY ACTION ON BRANDEIS

By International News Service.

Washington, April 27.—The Senate judiciary committee today again considered the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis, of Massachusetts, to be a justice of the Supreme Court and adjourned without taking action. The committee is reported to be deadlocked on the nomination.

Immediately after adjournment Senator Ashurst of Arizona issued a statement charging the Republican members of the committee deliberately were filibustering to prevent action by the committee on the nomination until after the Republican national convention is held.

"I believe that it is my duty to say to the press," said Senator Ashurst, "that there seems to be a Republican filibuster to hold up action on this nomination until after the Republican convention gets through. The reason I believe is to minimize the importance of the appointment.

"Today the committee took up only one phase of the contest, members insisting on the reading of testimony already printed and before them. It is understood that the testimony really today applied only to the London bankruptcy case.

CHANGES MADE IN POSTAL SERVICE

The following changes were announced by Postmaster Murray today: Joseph F. Eichorn, examiner of stations, has been appointed superintendent of the Brookline branch; Andrew B. Williams, a carrier at the Essex street station, has been appointed examiner of stations, as has John H. O'Brien, a carrier at the Medford station.

To amend the law relative to taxation of mutual insurance companies.

To provide more even grading of inheritance taxes, thus adding about $250,000 annually to this form of revenue.

DEPORTED FOR SOLICITING FUNDS

Nicola Daniel, who says he is a Syrian priest, held at the local immigration station on a charge of fraudulently soliciting funds for the Holy Land, has been ordered to Ellis Island, New York, for deportation. He was arrested in South Braintree at the instigation of Lloyd B. Hayes of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Asks Daughter to Kiss His Feet; Wife Leaves Him

Worcester, April 27. — Because a man asked his daughter to kiss his feet, his wife should not desert him, according to a decision made by Judge Utley in the District Court today.

The case was that of Arthur Dewey, thirty-seven years old, of No. 31 Union street, Worcester, who was charged with two counts by his wife. The woman testified that she had been subjected once to the feet incident and that on another occasion he made their ten-year-old daughter kiss his feet.

Dewey admitted that he had asked his daughter to kiss his feet, claiming that it was a Biblical custom and should be continued. Judge Utley told the woman that she had better go back to Dewey. She left the court, however, declaring that she was to start separate support proceedings.

HOLD 3 JITNEY MEN ACCUSED BY GIRLS

New Bedford, April 27.—William H. Mayhew, twenty-three, of Cross street, Fish River; Norman Hunt, twenty, of Pelican Island, and Antone Souza, nineteen, of Bolton street, all jitney bus drivers, were arraigned in Juvenile Court today on charges preferred by three young girls and held in $500 for a hearing next week. The complainants, Eugenie Forcier, fourteen, of Gifford street; Rose Plaisance, sixteen, of South Water street, and Edna B. Myrick, said to be of Easthams, were arrested recently, charged with shoplifting in Fall River. The Myricks girl pleaded guilty, and during an investigation it was found that the girls had been running away from home over-Goethals had discovered a plot to blow up the Panama Canal.

WERNER HORN'S PETITION IS DENIED

Judges Bingham, Aldrich and Brown of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in an opinion read by Judge Brown today, confirmed the finding of Judge Morton of the United States District Court in denying the petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Werner Horn, the young German who is now held at Plymouth County Jail on a charge of violating an interstate Commerce Law in relation to the carrying of explosives on passenger carriers.

Horn's offence is punishable by a fine of not more than $2,000 or a jail sentence of not more than eighteen months, or both.

In the opinion handed down today the circuit judges find that no question of international law is involved in the case, which will now go to trial.

Horn is the man who tried to demonstrate the International Railway Bridge over the St. Croix River to Vanceboro, Me. His alleged violation of the explosive-transportation law comes in his carrying dynamite from New York to the Canada border, according to federal officers.

Why Postpone Your Yellowstone Trip any Longer

If you've never been to Yellowstone, it's high time that you go. Make this a Yellowstone summer. If you do, it will become a Red Letter summer in your life, for Yellowstone is never to be forgotten once you have seen it.

It is Nature's own museum, where she has collected a great per cent. of her most wonderful wonders. There are the Emerald and Morning Glory Pools, Biscuit Basin, the Devil's Kitchen, and his Watch-Fob, Jupiter's Terrace and Old Faithful Geyser, to say nothing of the hundreds of other natural wonders.

The wild animals themselves are well worth seeing. The visitor to Yellowstone soon hear, elk, deer, antelope, mountain sheep, beaver, and a great many species of wild birds.

Imagine a waterfall twice the height of Niagara, and located in a canyon which is a veritable riot of colors, and you have the gigantic and justly famous Yellowstone Falls.

If you will leave it to me, I will plan your trip complete for you. My knowledge of the West is entirely at your disposal without charge—it is just a part of my service. So write, call, or if more convenient, write a postal, and I will see that you get our folder about Yellowstone, with a splendid map in colors and full descriptions.

STATE IN COURT FIGHT UPON PIER RATE

A new development in the fight between the State and the Boston & Maine Railroad over the rates charged on the new Commonwealth pier came today when Attorney General Attwill, on behalf of the State, filed a petition in the United States District Court to have the Interstate Commerce Commission's order regulating rates on the pier be set aside. The State also asks that the order be held up pending a ruling by the court.

The State charges discrimination on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission in fixing the rates on Commonwealth Pier higher than on other piers, citing for example the lower rates of the National Dock & Storage Warehouse Company.

The State had made similar charges against the Boston & Maine.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong at noon in New York, being at about the highest level attained up to that hour. Demand increased during the morning, largely because of reports as to the British attitude on the submarine boat controversy. Concessions by Germany are expected. War order issues and Mexican specialties were in most demand, but railroads were the feature. They had become more active and showed the largest gains as a class. Anaconda led the coppers, which were strong, but not particularly in evidence. Cuban-American Sugar made a big gain during the morning.

Gains at 12 o'clock included Anaconda 1⅜, Utah Copper 1⅜, Chino ⅝, Kennecott ⅝, American Zinc ⅛, Steel 1⅛, U. S. Smelting ⅞, Cuban-American Sugar 1⅝, Republic Steel 1⅝, Maxwell 1⅛, Studebaker 1⅝, Willys-Overland ⅝, American Can ⅛, Car and Foundry 1, American Locomotive 1⅝, Baldwin Locomotive 1⅝, U. Crucible 2¼, Distillers 1, Industrial Alcohol 2⅝, Mexican Petroleum 2⅝, Westinghouse ⅝, Marine ⅛, Erie 1⅝, first preferred 1⅝, Southern Pacific 1⅝, Atchison ⅝, Baltimore & Ohio 1⅛, Chesapeake & Ohio 1, Reading 1⅜, New Haven 1⅜, St. Paul ⅞, N. Y. Central 1¼, and Union Pacific 2¼.

The Boston market became more active during the forenoon, but the increase range did not broaden much. Most gains were fractional. At noon they included Anaconda 1⅛, Utah & Superior 1, American Zinc 1⅛, Calumet & Arizona ⅝, Calumet & Hecla 5, North Butte 1, Osceola 5, Quincy 5, United Shoe ⅝, U. S. Smelting 2, United Fruit ½, New Haven 1⅝, Boston & Maine ⅝, and Boston Elevated ½.

Prices were irregular and changes small at the start in New York, but the market had a better tone than at the close yesterday.

While the market was active it lacked strength at the opening. Transactions in specialties continued to constitute the bulk of trading for awhile. A number of war industrials and Mexican Petroleum were among the most prominent issues. Union Pacific was a strong and active rail. At the end of half an hour prices had substantially advanced. Among stocks to gain a point or more were Erie, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Reading, Pittsburgh Coal, Butte & Superior, American Can, American Car, Mexican Petroleum, Westinghouse, Maxwell, Studebaker, Crucible, Baldwin, American Locomotive, Distillers, U. S. Steel, Industrial Alcohol, Anaconda and Texas Co.

The Boston market began quiet but with a firm tone. Stocks were either unchanged or higher at the opening. Alaska Gold was a feature. It soon advanced a point on a few transactions. The local list improved in sympathy with New York. A number of issues showed good gains within half an hour. Others sold fractionally higher.

Among the strongest were U. S. Smelting, American Zinc, Butte & Superior and New Haven. Coppers showed fractional gains as a class.

In the metals market copper continues scarce and firm, while tin is steady. Lead is in more request than for several days. Spelter is dull and inclined to be heavy. In London spot copper and futures were unchanged, while electrolytic advanced £1. Spot tin and straits were off £1 10s, with futures unchanged. Lead quotations were 5s higher. Spelter quotations were unchanged.

DEAF MUTE, UNDER THE THIRD DEGREE, ADMITS KILLING WOMAN

New York, April 27.—The mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Mary Castelli, a deaf mute, was solved today with an iron bar in New Rochelle last Sunday.

Frank Vateri, a deaf mute, of Brooklyn, made a full confession, which he could make clear to the police only by writing it out.

The police say Vateri, who is 20 years old, has rarely been sober on Sunday, and a drunken spree with Greek friends.

The murder was for the purpose of getting rid of a woman he feared. Vateri was carrying on a love affair with Mrs. Castelli, and was afraid of trouble if her husband should learn of it.

Long before the confession was signed by the murderer, the police knew that Antonio Mazzei was connected with three others.

The men are charged with murder in the first degree. Mazzei has told his attorney, Joseph Cantalupo, that he will tell the story of the murder in full to the women in the case, and then only will he sign a confession.

Mazzei, Vateri and Mrs. Castelli were arrested last Sunday morning. Vateri informed his friend Cantalupo of the murder, and Cantalupo notified the police. Central station was notified by a postal to forward a dead body.

LOVELESS TRIANGLE

Mrs. Castelli, it is said, was the innocent victim of a love triangle. Vateri, it is said, was infatuated with the woman, and in a jealous rage killed her when refused as a bride.

STRUCK TO DEATH

He met her on the street, and struck her with the iron bar, which he had concealed in the bushes of the yard. Then he dragged the body into the house, and left it there.

Vateri was arrested by Detective Sergeant Ralph Mele, of the Italian squad, who had been working on the case for some time.

Mrs. Castelli was the mother of two children, and was separated from her husband.

Tyler to Buck Tesreau Gay Slab Duel Carded

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

HAVING piled up a fine list of doubleheaders so far, the Braves hope to be able to get a game in this afternoon with the Giants. The men have not got their stride as set, due in part to the great change from the warm weather of the South to the cold and rain in the East. About one good day in all they can figure they have had in their home stay. The interest in their games is great, and with anything like baseball weather the crowds will turn out to see them.

The Giants are still in last place, and look to be in a position to remain there unless they can get their bats to working more effectively than in the first game. Their failure to connect may have been due in part to the good work of the star pitcher of the Braves, Dick Rudolph, who has for several seasons been able to hang it onto the Giants, just as he has had the misfortune to be beaten in his starts against the Phillies with Alexander pitching.

Big Jeff Tesreau is slated to pitch today for the Giants, and it will be either Tyler or Barnes for the Braves. Should it be a warm day it is very probable that Manager Stallings will send Tyler for his start in the 15 season. Tyler is reported to be ready, only the Miracle Man does not wish to take any chances with his big left-hander. Barnes, the cub right-hander, has made a fine showing so far and bids fair to be a great help to the club.

There is considerable speculation as to when the manager of the Braves will send Bill James to the mound. So much has been written and said concerning him that he will be a big card when it is announced to work.

REGARDING KAUFF.

Speaking of cards, there is Benny Kauff of the Giants, the much advertised outfielder, who is out to put a crimp in Ty Cobb's record. From what has been written of this young man, one is led to believe that he cannot find a bat big enough to fit him, but those who know him best declare that he is a man of seeming conduct, one who does not intrude, in fact a person who acts as a gentleman should off the field.

He is a ball player and thinks as far as good as anyone, which is a good thing for any player to have under his cap. These modest men, resenting and inoffensive, do not last long in the game. There has to be a certain amount of ego in the make up of a great ball player.

One thing is certain, he has more than earned his salary so far for the club in the attendance he has drawn and will continue to be a card on the road for the first time around at least. What is to happen thereafter remains for him to pronounce. If he goes well there is a bright future for him. If he falls down that there is the minors to fall back upon or his business.

He has shown that he knows what to do and is working all the time for the team. He loves to win and that kind of a man with any ability at all is a fine thing to have around. The strength provide that he does not appear to be a man who will mind that kind of stuff. Baseball crowds are for the fellows who come to jeer when a player delivers are the first to cheer so there is hope for Benny.

BRAVES LACK PEPPER

The Braves are not a very peppery team as yet. Johnny Evers is about the only member of the organization who has anything to say on the field. A little more life will be a good thing for the club. There can be plenty of life without the danger of the line hanging over the heads of the players.

The race is still very young and the changes that are to follow seem to depend upon the ability of the pitching staff of the Miracle Man to come through. The outfield is stronger than it was last season, even as it stands today with Maggee out of the line-up, when he gets back hitting as he has been there will be that much more strength in a place where it is sadly needed.

Kometchy on first is going as well as any one could expect of him in comparison to Hig Bedford, who with a warm place in the esteem of the fans of the country for his clean aggressive playing and timely hitting.

The rest of the infield is the same as last year, when they had a good chance to win. Gowdy is looking better each game. Aside from Hank the catchers are weak, none having had much experience in the big league. George Davis, who is rated as a first class right-hander, will be available in the early part of June, when he will have finished his studies at the Harvard Law School.

SCHOOL TWIRLER LETS GO 0-HIT GAME

Pitcher Brainard of the Powder Point nine blanked Plymouth High without a hit in the game at Duxbury. He whiffed fifteen batters, tossed out three others at first and only allowed one fly ball to go to the outfield. Brainard spoiled an otherwise flawless performance by walking three batters.

HURLERS ON SICK LIST

Shore and Foster, Nursing Sore Arms, Will Be Out for Several Days; Leonard May Work.

NEW YORK, April 27.—It is scarcely likely that either Ernest Shore or George Foster, Bill Carrigan's two star right-handers, will be able to take their regular turn in the box against the Yankees during the current series.

Two games remain and "Dutch" Leonard will have to pitch one of them, with the possibility that "Hube" Ruth, who squelched the clan of Donovan Tuesday, performing in the final.

Both Shore and Foster are nursing aggravated cases of sore arms. Rather than risk ruining his stars, Carrigan will permit them to lay off several days more until satisfied their respective "works" are thoroughly attuned.

Carrigan has been compelled to rearrange his entire pitching program on account of the incapacitation of Foster and Shore. Yesterday, instead of hurling Foster, he was forced to start Marty McHale. Result: Five runs in the first inning.

A NOISY VENTURE.

Marty continued two more innings and then Vean Gregg was sent in the job. Under normal conditions Foster would have pitched yesterday and Shore today.

The cold snap of the last few days got into the arms of Shore and Foster, and Carrigan is yearning for some warm weather to iron out the kinks in their arms.

Duffy Lewis is also under the weather, but refuses to lay off. His knees are bothering him, with his bunged-up thumb not yet healed, but he namely continues in the game because he realizes his presence is needed in every combat.

With Clarence Walker laid up in Boston with acute rheumatism, it is reported, Carrigan's crew is pretty well disorganized. But the fighting spirit is there, and with the return of the stars, better things may be looked for. Even in spite of these many defections, the World's Champions continue to lead the race in their circuit.

BAKER POKES THREE.

"Home-Run" Baker has started hitting and, as all furtune would have it, he waited until the Red Sox were here to put on his batting clothes. In yesterday's 9-0 act the Trappe mauler whomped out three hits and helped himself to a couple of runs.

Leslie Shanahan, a Boston Red Sox retiarge, is still on his outing jamboree. Yesterday he collected three hits, which, with the four of the day previous, gave him a record of seven hits in eight times at bat.

Ray Fisher, who has turned in two winning games this season, will be the pitching selection for the Yanks here this afternoon. He last performed against Washington Saturday and has had sufficient rest to go the route. Cliff Markeson, rookie had the Red Sox eating out of his hand all the way yesterday.

The Red Sox got men as far as third base in three innings, but they stayed there. Jeweler McNally walked in the ninth and went around to third on Henry's single. He scored on Gedeon, who manipulated a double play.

While this was being done it never occurred to McNally that he had plenty of time to record and save his team from a whitewash. Ruth was a pinch hitter for Gregg and ended the matinee by tapping to Markle.

PAIR OF NEW CAPTAINS.

Two new school baseball captains: First Baseman McGinnis, Dorchester High; Pitcher-outfielder Jack Billings, Roxbury Latin.

Penn Enthuses Over Showing of Oarsmen

Philadelphia, April 27.—Not in a good many years has there been so much enthusiasm in rowing matters at the University of Pennsylvania as right now. This is due to the victory of the Pennsylvania varsity eight over Yale.

It is true that the Quaker eight had the advantage of longer training than the Elis, but in view of the fact that their crew was made up largely of new men, with a new coach, the result was most satisfactory.

Coach Joe Wright ordered his crew to rest up for three days, in spite of the fact that they must row the Navy at Annapolis on Saturday.

RELAY STAR LOST TO PENN OUTFIT

Philadelphia, April 27.—Pennsylvania's relay teams are putting the final touches on their program of practice for the athletic carnival on Franklin Field, tomorrow and Saturday, when 2,400 college and school athletes from many sections of the East and Middle West will compete.

Joe Loeb'ood, a member of the year's record breaking mile relay team, who has been in the University Hospital since last Thursday suffering from ptomaine poisoning, will be unable to participate in the relays.

KAHANAMOKU WINS 50-YARD TANK TITLE

Chicago, April 27.—Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii won the fifty-yard A. A. U. championship title in the C. A. A. tank, vanquishing a speedy field, including Mcgillivary, Rathal and Ranne. His time was 23 4-5s, within one-fifth of a second of the record. M. McDermott, I. A. C., landed the National 100-yard breast stroke title; time 2m. 42 3-5s.

YALE TRACK SQUAD LOSES TWO CRACKS

New Haven, Ct., April 27.—Ted Leisenring, Yale's star hurdler, and Morrison B. Orr, crack miler, are lost to the team. Leisenring is out of competition for the remainder of the season with a strained tendon. Orr has returned to his home at Piqua, O.

REDS CAN TWO WARRIORS.

Cincinnati, April 27.—Outfielder Beall of the Reds has been sold to the Milwaukee (American Association) club and Pitcher Dougan turned over to the Salt Lake (Pacific Coast League) club.

H. S. RELAY TEAM IS OFF.

Huntington School's crack relay team leaves for the big Philadelphia meet this afternoon. Verder, Shumorrill and Marling comprise the quartet. Coaches Williams and Jenkins are going along.

MOORE-McCOY MATCHED.

New York, April 27.—Pat Moore, of Memphis and Benny McCoy of Baltimore will meet in a return match at the Pioneer S. C. next Monday night.

'Tis Spring!
Full well I know 'tis Spring!
Nor is it necessary
For me to hear the birds sing.
Tweet! Tweet! Tweet!
Nor is it necessary
To get a cold in the dome,
Nor to sneeze;
Various sneezes
Athwart the landscape,
Nor is it necessary
To hear Hank Eagle say
Into the horny handed sons of toil;
"Nothin' doin'! There is no more buck beer!"
Nor bathing suits,
Nor is it necessary
To consult the calendar,
Nor to call up the sporting editor
Of your favorite newspaper
While he is busy
In an attempt to beat the dead line
And ask him: "Is it Spring?"
All that is necessary is to consult
The batting averages,
Tyrus R. Cobb is hitting .321.
'Tis Spring!

NOT ON SUNDAY.

Little drops of water
Splashing on the clay
Always stop a ball game
Played on Wednesday.

But an arctic blizzard
Roaring long and loud
Would not stop a ball park
To a Sunday crowd.

PROVIDENCE RINGS UP CURTAIN TODAY

Providence, April 27.—Providence pries off the baseball lid today, and if the weather this afternoon is anything like the proper stripe a gala crowd is bound to attend the matinee between Dave Sheean's Grays and Tommy Lynch's Rochester Hustlers. Mayor Gainer is to toss out the first ball. "Tootsie" Schultz and Walter Leverenz are the backers slated to oppose each other.

Many a time I've blessed the day I first learned of "Helmar." They've cheered me when loneliness made me blue. They've kept me calm and clear-headed in many a tight place. They're bully!

PUBLIC SERVICE

A Vicious Scheme Is Exposed

IF the telephone company is wise it will call off Mr. Dickerman and its lobby on the bill to destroy the present Public Service Commission. Their activities are discovered. Their scheme is laid bare. They know that the investigation of their service and charges can no longer be postponed, so they are trying to destroy an independent body and create a new body of men whom they may control, for the conduct of such an investigation.

They are particularly anxious to rid the commission of Mr. Joseph B. Eastman, whose appointment the corporations so bitterly opposed, and at least one other independent member of the commission. If they fear Mr. Eastman's efficiency and his independence on the commission; if they force him off as the corporations forced off Mr. George W. Anderson two years ago, they will find his activity by no means reduced, if he is willling to resume his old position as secretary of an organization established to do the work in the public interest which the old controlled commissions had failed to do.

If the public is deprived of the official service of Mr. Eastman, or of any other member of that board whom we know to be able and honest, the AMERICAN assures the telephone company and the Bay State and every other corporation interested in this wretched conspiracy that Mr. Eastman's services will not be lost, if he is still willing to render them in the public interest. The AMERICAN will join with a body of other public-spirited gentlemen to engage Mr. Eastman in unofficial, though none the less effective, work of investigating the affairs of this telephone company and forcing the cowardly and subservient members of the Legislature who are now coming back under the old lobby control to correct abuses which may be found in the telephone company's affairs. The AMERICAN promises the telephone company a very interesting period during the next few years if their present little scheme is consummated.

The Bay State officials may find, too, that it would be wiser for them not to attempt the destruction of the court to which they had already submitted their demands merely because they cannot be certain of its decision.

If there is a spark of the old independence and public spirit in Massachusetts, we predict that the corporations will rue the day they attempted this high-handed destruction of the Public Service Commission, and so will the Republican party, which now has full control of the government, and without the approval of whose responsible leaders the conspiracy cannot be successful.

Let the telephone company and the Bay State be wise and call off the lobby.

The Man with the Axe

Learn First What YOUR OWN POWER IS

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

FRANCIS G. DITTMAR sends the story which you shall read in this column.

Young men will not waste their time if they read this short story carefully. It will teach them to write, and also, we hope, inspire them to think.

THE MAN WITH THE AXE.

Once upon a time a man lived among those who till the soil and, like them, he went out into the fields to labor.

But where his neighbors used hoes and spades, he used an axe; for this was the tool the Maker had given him.

By hard work he strove to overcome this difficulty, but without success. And because of his slow progress and awkwardness he was ridiculed by his neighbors until he lost all confidence in himself and his love of life.

One night, long after his neighbors had gone to rest, he sat in his hut, dolefully regarding the axe. His fingers chanced to glide over its edge, and he felt that the once keen blade was becoming dull.

This puzzled him. All the more so because he had seen the tools of his neighbors brighten and sharpen under the use.

So greatly was he perplexed that sleep would not come to him that night; and in the morning he arose weary, with no mind for work. And deeply engrossed in the problem he wandered off into the forest.

"Alas!" he cried at last in despair, "Woe is me! All my efforts are wasted, for an inferior tool the Maker has given me, and my work must remain inferior because of it!"

And his ire rose at the injustice of his Maker and he struck wildly about with the axe, thinking to destroy the worthless tool.

But of a sudden he felt the blade captured, and when he looked, he saw that it had sunken deeply into the trunk of a tree. Breaking the axe out with great difficulty he struck again—with the same result. And again and again he struck —until the tree crashed to the ground and with its fruits lay at his feet.

Long the man stood, staring at the fallen tree. Then he ran out into the fields, calling loudly for his neighbors to come into the forest with him.

They were greatly amused at his excitement and not disposed to take him very seriously, but finally they went with him.

Arrived at the tree, he bade them fell another, whereat they laughed even louder. But they went at it with a will, for they were not to be outdone by a Failure.

Their hoes and spades, however, could no more than bruise the bark of the trees they attempted to fell. And seeing this the man lifted up his hands and cried:

"O, my God! Forgive my stupidity! And, O, Wise One, pray accept my gratitude for the lesson of the axe!"

What happened to this man with the axe happens to thousands and millions of human beings.

Many go through a great part of life not knowing what weapons, what talent they have, discouraged simply because they do not KNOW HOW TO USE what they possess.

This "Man with the Axe" story is good writing because it concentrates the thought of the reader upon his own problem.

How the Earth Might Its Quietus Make

By Garrett P. Serviss

"If this earth, going at such tremendous speed, should suddenly stop, what would be the result?—J. G."

THE result would never be recorded, unless by beings not subject to the physical laws that govern us. You have seen a drop of water fall upon a redhot stove lid and disappear, leaving perhaps a slight stain on the iron. So the earth, if instantaneously arrested, would leave only a stain in the ether—a baby nebula.

In its orbital speed of 18½ miles per second, as it travels around the sun, the earth carries in its bosom a magazine of kinetic energy, or energy of motion, which only needs to change its form to blow the earth, by molecular explosion, into a cloud. If you arrest motion you produce heat. Bring an anvil with a hammer and the iron is warmed. Fire a leaden bullet against a steel target and the lead is melted. Its arrested motion is transformed into heat. If the bullet went fast enough it would be not merely melted but vaporized.

The energy increases in proportion to the square of the velocity. This is expressed in a very useful formula as follows:

$E = \frac{1}{2} M V^2$, which means that E, the kinetic energy, is equal to one-half the product of the square of the velocity, V, multiplied by the weight or mass, M, of the body.

In order to calculate the amount of heat produced by the arrest of a body moving with any given velocity we first turn the expression of the kinetic energy into foot pounds by dividing the numerical value of the kinetic energy by 32, the number of feet per second that the force of gravity imparts to a falling body. Next we divide by 778, the number of foot pounds in one thermal unit, which is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit.

The velocity of the earth is fast, per second is 97,680. This is the "V" of our formula, and squaring it we get 9,541,382,400. Now, instead of multiplying this by the weight of the earth in pounds, which would give us bothersome numbers to handle, we simply call the earth's weight, or mass, unity, or 1, which when multiplied into the value of V squared does not alter the figures above given. We next divide by 2, which gives the units of kinetic energy per unit mass; then by 32, which gives the foot pounds, and finally by 778, which gives the thermal, or heat, units. This last quotient comes out 191,625, very nearly.

This means that if the earth were arrested its kinetic energy, or energy of motion, would be transformed into heat energy sufficient to raise the temperature of every pound of its mass, if that mass were wholly water, 191,625 degrees. But the rise of temperature in the solid materials of the earth would be several times greater yet, because the specific heat of water is higher than that of solid bodies.

Of course nothing could resist a temperature of several hundred thousand degrees. Iron melts at only 2,742 degrees and boils at 4,442. It is bad enough to have an automobile, or a railway train, stop suddenly, but they cannot turn us into puffs of vapor, although they may do worse.

It is very important for the interests of the human race that the earth be kept going, just as it is very important for the comfort of a party of boys on a bobsled riding down a long icy hill that they should not encounter a high and solid stone wall.

If the stoppage of the earth were brought about gradually, by rushing into a nebula, for instance, as a meteor rushes into the atmosphere, so much heat would be developed at the surface that the superficial rocks of the crust would be melted, oceans and mountains would disappear in steam and smoke, and every form of life would be snuffed out, although the interior of the globe, if the flight through the nebula was not indefinitely prolonged, might remain unaffected by the exterior conflagration, just as the core of a meteorite which has traversed the atmosphere and fallen upon the earth remains cold, although the surface has been fused off by the heat developed by friction.

We have considered only the velocity of the earth's revolution around the sun, but it is also rushing, together with the sun, at the rate of about twelve miles per second, toward a point in the northern sky, and the resultant of the two motions, if used in the calculations, would make the figures for the heat generated by the earth's arrest still more formidable, but we should not notice the difference—a hundred thousand degrees would settle our affair as well as a million could do it!

Then there is the motion of rotation on its axis. In this the velocity is comparatively insignificant, but if it were suddenly stopped the oceans would fly out of their beds and pour upon the continents along their western shores, accompanied by a wind all around the earth, having an initial speed at the equator of nearly 1,500 feet per second, and in our latitude of about 1,100 feet per second.

Their Wives

By William F. Kirk

DAMON and Pythias, pals all their lives,
Chummied like two brothers
And cared for no others
Excepting the girls that they chose for their wives.
Damon would belt at the drop of the hat
If someone called Pythias this name or that;
Pythias once poked a dude on the nose
For slurring remarks about Damon's red hose.
Damon once heard some old codger or other
Saying that Pythias owed his big brother,
And that same old codger was sorry he said it
Or anything else about Pythias' credit.

Was it so with their wives? Did they get on together?
No, not on their lives!
These two little wives,
Instead of each thinking the other divine,
Agreed like two tomcats hung over a line.
Mrs. Damon was coarse, Mrs. Pythias said,
Check full of deceit from her toes to her head.
Mrs. Pythias drank till it made her nose pink—
Mrs. Damon could prove it—she saw her friend drink!
And once, when the ladies were playing draw poker,
She saw Mrs. Pythias palming the joker.
Yes, Damon and Pythias lived in twin hives,
But their wives?
No, not on their lives!

"Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be?"

New Song Is the Voice of Man's Conscience Crying Out for Right, and Should Be Heard All Over the Land, Says Dorothy Dix

By Dorothy Dix

THERE'S a new song—a song with a punch that goes straight for the heart and administers a knockout blow to all who hear it. It is called "Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be?"

If I were Mr. Carnegie or Mr. Rockefeller or Mrs. Russell Sage, or any other philanthropist with money to spend for the betterment of the world, I'd buy millions of copies of that song and distribute them broadcast over the land. I'd hire musicians with the voices of angels to sing it in cabarets and music halls. I'd have hurdy-gurdies play it on the street corners, and phonographs warble it in parlors, and I'd start the greatest reformation in all history.

For that simple little song is the voice of a man's conscience crying out to him. "Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be," you loafer, you quitter, you man afraid-of-work? "Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be," you man with the blear eyes and the shambling figure, reaching out shaking hands across the bar for another glass of whiskey?

Happy Is He Who Can Answer the Question in the Affirmative

"Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be," you smug, prosperous hypocrite, with your fair public professions and your rotten private deeds? "Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be," you successful man, whose riches have been wrung out of the necessities of the poor or the toil of little children?

"Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be?" Fortunate and happy he who can answer that question in the affirmative, for full as the world is of evil, there is one thing in it that is eternally high and noble, and that is a mother's aspirations for her children. Whatever a woman may be herself, she wants her children to be good.

Have you ever watched the expression on the face of a mother as she looked down upon the babe on her breast, particularly if that babe was a man child? In her face you see all love, all tenderness, all hope, all ambition. It is the look that artists have tried to paint, and that we call the Madonna expression.

Other people may see in the child only an ugly, red-faced mite of humanity, with rudimentary features, and no hair or eyebrows, and with about as much indication of intelligence in the face as a cream cheese.

But the mother sees the hands of a Paderewski in the pudgy little fists, or the brow of a Webster in the bald head, or the strength of a Jess Willard in the feeble little legs. Always she sees something great and good. She never sees the weakling, the derelict, the tramp, the drunkard, or the thief that the baby so often becomes. And that is God's mercy to mothers.

The romance of a woman's life is not her brief courtship and marriage, as novelists would have us believe. Her real romance begins when she holds her first son in her arms, and dreams over him the long, beautiful dreams of motherhood. He is to achieve all the great things that she was debarred from even attempting to achieve by reason of sex and lack of opportunity. He is to fulfil all of her hopes and aspirations. He is her incarnate ambition, soul of her soul as well as flesh of her flesh.

Every U. S. Mother Cradles a Future President Her Arms.

It is because the eyes of mothers are so full of dreams of what their sons are going to do that they are so soft. They are looking afar off, adown the years and seeing their sons great and useful, and successful men, and their mothers sharing in their triumph. And if, as has been said, in France every soldier carries a marshal's baton in his knapsack, be sure that every American mother cradles a President in her arms.

It is this dream of what their sons are to be that makes motherhood worth while to a woman, that gives her the courage to go down into the valley of the shadow and battle with death for the little life that she believes is going to be a benediction to humanity. How cruelly bitter then must be the disappointment of those mothers who see their dreams come to naught, and the sons for whom they have paid such a price in travail of no account, failures, or worse.

What an ideal a mother's hopes for her boy raise before him! What a goal to strive for, to pick oneself up out of the mire and try to win back to, if one has failed! That's why I would set the whole world singing, "Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be?"

"Have you kept your promise to her
That you made while on her knee?
Can you truly say you're half the man today
That she always thought you'd be?"

Peril of the Drug Habit

From "Habits That Handicap"

By Charles B. Towns

PART ONE

IT is human nature to wish to ease pain and to stimulate ebbing vitality. There is no normal adult who, experiencing severe pain or sorrow or fatigue, and thoroughly appreciating the immediate action of an easily accessible opiate, is not likely in a moment of least resistance to take it.

Every one who has become addicted to a drug has started out with small occasional doses, and no one has expected to fall a victim to the habit; indeed, many have been totally unaware that the medicine they were taking contained any drug whatever.

Thus, the danger being one that threatens us all, it is every man's business to insist that the entire handling and sale of the drug be under as careful supervision as possible. It is not going too far to say that up to the present time most drug-takers have been unfairly treated by society.

Not Safeguarded

They have not been properly safeguarded from forming the habit or properly helped to overcome it.

It has been criminally easy for any one to acquire the drug habit. Few physicians have recognized that it is not safe for most persons to know what will ease pain. When an opiate is necessary, it should be given only on prescription, and its presence should then be thoroughly disguised.

A patient goes to a physician to be cured; consequently, when his pain disappears, he naturally believes that this is due to the treatment he has received. If the physician has used morphine in a disguised form, the patient naturally believes that the cure was effected by some unknown medicine; but if, on the other hand, he has received morphine knowingly, he realizes at once that it is this drug which is responsible for easing pain.

Idea Created

If he has received it hypodermically, the idea is created in his mind that a hypodermic is a necessary part of the treatment. Thus it is clear that the physician who uses his syringe without extreme necessity is greatly to be censured, for the patient who has once seen his pain blunted by the use of a hypodermic eagerly resorts to this means when the pain returns.

Conservative practitioners are keenly aware of the responsibility far as never to and some go so [illegible] mile on their visits, carry a hypodermic. observation shows though daily ge doctor regards it that the average ble.
